What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited. How do they manifest themselves? In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By Hood's Sarsaparilla

the day between the candidates. In the morning a second conference was held between representatives of the twelve candidates, when the form of nomination was discussed incroughly. Friends of Burgess, Valliant, Fox and Sherwood and Woodson insisted on the compromise proposition, while the others were in favor of the so-called single-shot nominations. No agreement being reached, the conference adjourned, the matter being left to the Convention Committee.

PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

Temporary Organization, Address of Welcome, Reports.

BT STAFF CORRESPONDENT. Springfield, Mo., July 8.-The convention was called to order by chairman of the State Committee, James M. Seibert, at noon, and the preliminaries incidental to getting down to business were disposed of without a hitch. Prayer was offered by the Reverend G. W. Hughey of Springfield, a Methodist minister. The selection of Judge Kathaniel M. Shelton of Schuyler County ss temporary chairman and Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis as temporary secretary was announced. Judge Shelton was greeted with applause. He made a happy speech. The various districts represented were then called upon for the names of their members of Committees on Credentials, Resolutions and Permanen: Organization. Judge Jeff Pollard of St. Louis was appointed reading cierk. Before adjournment was taken for junch, addresses of welcome were delivered by C. W. Hamlin, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Seventh District, and Mayor J. E. Mellette of Springfield.

Meilette's Felicitous Welcome. Mayor Mellette then spoke. "I have been troubled ever since I heard you Democrats were coming about what kind of a speech I should make," he sail, "a Republican or Jeffersonian one. A few years ago I made should make," he sail, "a Republican or Jeffersonian one. A few years ago I made a speech, thinking at the time that I was annihilating you fellows, and I kept on thinking so until to-day. Gentlemen, you are here as representatives of one of the greatest parties in the United States, and, looking at your faces, I say, without flattery, that you are worthy of the honor." In conclusion he gave the delegates a hearty welcome.

Chairman Shelton then instructed the va-

Chairman Sheiton then instructed the various committees to retire and arrange their reports. The convention took a recess until 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

None of the three committees was ready to report at 3 o'clock. When this fact was announced there were calls for a speech from Mayor Reeu of Kansas City.

"I do not know what you expect of me this afternoon," he said. "I did not expect to be called upon for a speech. We are here to perform an important duty, and we have no time for speeches. Besides, the weather is too warm. I am satisfied that you appreciate the importance of this duty and that you desire no other reward than that your labors be ratified by the Democrats of the State."

Half Hour's Adjournment.

Half Hour's Adjournment. The three committees were not yet ready to report when Mayor Reed was through to report when Mayor Reed was through speaking, and Chairman Shelton suggested that the convention adjour for a half hour. This suggestion met with disapproval from a large majority of the delegates, who favored sending after the Committee on Order of Business. Several motions relative to adjournment were heard, and the question was finally put. A few delegates responded "Ayel" and without asking if there was any objection Shelton declared the "ayes" had it, and so adjourned the convention for a half hour, which action was greeted with hisses from a large majority of the delegates who were anxious to hurry along the work.

During the adjournment the friends of Dave Bull of Pike County, who had remained in the Ball, availed themselves of the opportunity afforded by the absence of the other delegates and called upon him for a speech. Judge Shelton Retires.

When the delegates again assembled an neident occurred which aroused the con-zention. Judge Shelton returned to the pre-dding officer's chair unable to proceed. siding officer's chair unable to proceed. When he attempted to speak the words wouldn't come. The delegates at first thought that he was joking, but when they wouldn't come the delegates at first thought that he was joking, but when they realized the true state of affairs cries and jects made the greatest confusion. Judge Shelton apparently did not realize the position in which he had put himself until Captain J. W. Farris of Lebanon and Jeff Peliard led him from the stage. He was taken to his room.

As the committee had not yet reported, although it was long after 4 o'clock, Judge Alexander of Davies County moved that a committee be appointed to go after the other committees and demand an immediate report. The motion found unanimous favor from the other delegates, and accordingly Royal of the First Dastrict, Wilson of the Ninth and Harber of the Sixth were appointed by the chair to see what delayed the committees.

Later the committees on Credentials and Resolutions submitted their reports. The report on credentials was read by Judge Pollard and adopted, but the resolutions ware tabled to await the report from the Committee on Permanent Organization.

Committee on Permanent Organization. This was not done, however, until after the resolutions had been read. Ball Provokes Disturbance. Dave Ball of Pike County made use of the opportunity presented by the delay in the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business. C. R. Ball had assumed the chair after the retirement of Judge Shelton. He immediately recognized his brother, who read an amendment to the report of the Committee on Resolutions, as follows:

"Resolved, That we, the Democrats of Missouri, in convention assembled, do here-Missouri, in convention assembled, do here-hy indorse the principles of the Democratic party as enunciated in the National Demo-cratic platform of 1900 in Kannas City."

Dave Ball then began a tirade against the committee for leaving out reference to the Hissed by Delegates.

"I would not leave this convention willingly," he began, "unless the delegates had said whether they were Democrats or cowards. (Hisses.) We are going to nominate Democratic Judges. We want to know if they are going to indorse the party platforms."

He then launched into a denunciation of the St. Louis delegates, who had begun to shout "Meriwether" at him, referring to his speeches against Mayor Wells in the mayoralty campaign. Bail replied angrity. The convention was in an uproar. August P. Daues of St. Louis tried to make the point of order that the Bail amendment was out of order, Chairman Bail ruled that in a Democratic convention any marked a right to make a Democratic speech.

The delegates hissed and cheered. Many disciplances were on their feet. Harry Hawes walked down the aisle advising the delegates from St. Louis to keep quiet and let Ball proceed. He tried to gain recognition natter all had subsided, but Senator Frank Farris of Crawford County got the floor.

At the same time, C. R. Ball yielded the chair to Jeff Pollard, who presided for the next half hour. Farris asked that the Ball amendment be declared out of order, as the convention was not yet permanently organized. Pollard declared the point well taken and the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business was read.

Of course, the main feature of this report was the paragraph relating to the form of nomination. The report pronounced in favor of the so-called bianket proposition. The minority proposition was read by Peyton A. Parks of Henry County, in which the so-called single-shot method was advocated. The speech of Mr. Parks in support of the minority report started the oratorical fireworks of the day. He said that the compromise system was undemocratic and unfair. He claimed that under this system a man with 120 votes could command 360 votes and the nomination.

The legates, especially from the Kausus City and the Sixth District called for Congressmin W. S. Cowherd. He was recognized and made a ringing speech against the compromise proposition.

"We want to make nominations," he nized and made a finding speech against the compromise proposition.

"We want to make nominations," he said, "in a Democratic way with Demo-cratic votes. We want a fair deal to every man. Don't let a man having a minority of the convention force his nomination by open dickers with his enemies."

Spoke for Majority Report. Ed Harber then spoke for the majority report, claiming that procedents uphed the convention in the system. He named some of the Judges of the Supreme Court who had been nominated by the straight-blanket proposition. He cited the counties which had been instructed for three camidates and asked them how they intended to treat the candidates whem they were sup-

Speaker James H. Whitecotton of Monroe County was then recognized. "I want fairness," he said. "I am against judicial and industrial trusts of any sort, and I am against this form of making the nominations. Only a few years ago we passed a law separating the judicial from the State Convention simply to take the matter out of politics. Here we have a propasition which smells of the lobby. We will be doing our duty if we adopt the minority report."

Mayor Reed of Kansas City pointed out how five men could, under the system recommended in the majority report, be worked so that five men could be nominated at the same time. "I would like to know what candidate for the Supreme Court will father this so-called compromise measure.

Result of the Roll Call. The tension in the convention was great, toll call was demanded from over the en-ire house. This was taken and resulted in tire house. This was taken and resulted in the adoption of the majority report by a vote of 393% to 317%.

The majority report of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business was then unanimously adopted.

Jeff Pollard immediately presented Charles E. Peers of Warrenton as the permanent chairman. Dave Ball then demanted a vote on the amendment which he had presented to the report of the Committee on Resolutions. No speeches were made, though a delegate from Kansas City emphasized the fact that the Fifth District would stand by the amendment.

On a roll call, the amendment was carried by a vote of 591 to 195. Nearly all the countles voted for the amendment. The following systems. On a roll call, the amendment was carried by a vote of 501 to 199. Nearly all the countles voted for the amendment. The following voted against the amendment: Adatr. Barton, Caldwell, Cass. TWO REPORTS ON METHOD. Majority of Committee Recommended the Compromise Plan.

BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT. Springfield, Mo., July & The meeting of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business was attended with and Order of Eusiness was attended with features not on the published programme. When the committee assembled at 2 o'clock in the new Y M. C. A. building, just across a foregone conclusion that the so-called compromise method of nominating candidates would be recommended. Though the prophecy was fulfilled, St. Louis was injected into the light in a way which threatered to force "stage-shot" nominations.

Former sensior is, w. Jonason of Mont-joinery County was chosen chairman. The taling considered was the permanent organization. There was practically no dis-cussion of this feature. The form of nom-mation was next taken up and on this de-bate, lasting during the greater part of the committee meeting, was waged, Juage Green of the Thirteenth District and J. G. Pax-ton of Kansas City led the fight for the single shooters. On a vote they were beaten le to 6 by the compromise members.

It did no good, for the com-promise still held - sod by a vote of 8 to 8, one of the St. Louis, members refusing to join the movement, Hawes Changed Sentiment.

Harry Hawes was outside of the commit-tee room. When he heard of the changed location of St. Louis on the roll call, he uratively went up in the air, the advantage of being near the bottom of the list being apparent to all. He left the building lin a hurry, and visited a few of the political managers in charge of the candidates' campaigns. He asked them if they expected any votes out of St. Louis. So effective was his talk that when the committee reconvened after a half hours 'recess, he had sentiment changed. The first thing done was the unanimous reversal of the proposition, and St. Louis resumed its mormal position on the roll call.

Again was the method of nomination discussed. Some of the candidates had refused to push a minority report. On the final showdown, only three members signed this report. They were Peyton A. Parks of the Sixth District, the home of W. W. Graves: J. G. Paxton of Kansas City, the home of Judge Gates and Levi L. Scott of the Fifteenth. Permanent Organization.

Hall, who had not had enough fun with alleging that the chairman had ruled in properly when he decided that the Ball amendment could not be added to amendment could not be added to the report as first submitted. Hall made a speech on the question, but the delegates did not appreciate the point he was making and refused to take it seriously. Moreover, they objected to his speaking, and did so with so much fervor that the chairman ruled him out of order the first time he got a chance and called for the nomination speeches. The first candidate to be nominated was Judge Burgess. His name was placed before the convention by Judge William M. Williams of Cooper County. The latter spoke of Judge Burgess as a model Judge and manly mun. He gaid that it was a sincere pleasure for him to present such an able man, one whose past service stands as a monumental recommendation of his qualifications for the high office which he has high office which dications for the high office which he halready filled with so much satisfaction

Nomination of Woodson

In nominating Judge Woodson of St. Jo-seph, A. R. Duncan of Buchanan County said he had known him from boyhood. He said his candidate was not running for s-place on the Supreme bench because he i-out of a job, as he has two years yet to serve the Circuit Court. The speaker re-ferred to the physical codurance of Judge Woodson, and placed great stress upon the fact that his candidate is younger than any of his rivals. f his rivals.

Congressman William S. Cowherd placed fudge E. P. Gates of Kansas City in nomination. He said: "If you would have a man with all the qualities demanded of a man with all the qualities demanded of a Supreme Judge give him ten years' practice in a country town and ien years' practice in an industrial center.

"Judge Gates has the qualifications. We offer him to you not because you need him, but because we need him ourselves. We pledge to you that his character is beyond reproach." reproach."

Mr. Cowherd's speech was well received.
He made excellent use of the fifteen minstes allotted him.

County, who was a member of the "Lexow" Committee which visited St. Louis a few years are, made the numinating speech for Judge E. M. Hughes. He said Pike County stands as a solid phalanx for Democracy, and that the State owes it to that county to honor her illustrious son. Judge Hughes, he said, is an able jurist and an honest man. Judge James E. McKeighan of St. Louis presented the name of Judge Vaillant, whom he referred to as an ideal jurist for sixteen years he has held a judicial position in this State.

his State. In 1892 he was the only candidate except In 1892 he was the only candidate except one who was elected on the Democratio ticket. He is a vote-getter on his merits. His name, his reputation, his integrity, his fidelity are appreciated by all.

I believe you will manifest that appreciation by making him one of your candidates. Marshall Arnold of Scott County placed in nomination Judge J. D. Fox, the last candidate presented to the convention. He said his man has plenty of backbone and possesses all of the qualifications required of a Supreme Judge. Southeast Missouri, he said, had never had a Supreme Judge, although it is the home of 50,000 Democrats.
